about this catalog

UGA Press has a long tradition of publishing books about nature and the environment. A rich variety of work has been published over the years, ranging from books of philosophy that are internationally focused to field guides of the Southeast to narrative writing that is both personal and universal.

This paperless catalog features almost 150 titles divided into five major subject areas: ecocriticism, environmental history, field guides, nature writing & trade nonfiction, and philosophy & ethics. PDFs are available of the entire catalog and of each section separately. Each section has a separate author index. An order form is also included.

The Great New Wilderness Debate

Edited by J. Baird Callicott and Michael P. Nelson

Beginning with such well-known authors as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, John Muir, and Aldo Leopold, the collection moves to the contemporary debate presenting seminal works by scholars in environmental history and philosophy.

"A rich collection of wilderness voices that previews the shape of environmentalist discourse in the ongoing debate about how we will treat the nonhuman world in the twenty-first century."—ISLE

The Wilderness Debate Rages On available October 2008

Continuing the Great New Wilderness Debate

Edited by J. Baird Callicott and Michael P. Nelson

A complementary second volume that includes essays and articles written since the publication of The Great New Wilderness Debate, as well as important historical voices of leading ecologists from the early twentieth century on the role of wilderness preservation in biodiversity conservation.

Paper, $34.95s | 3171-3
Unjacketed cloth, $69.95y | 2740-2

Divided Planet

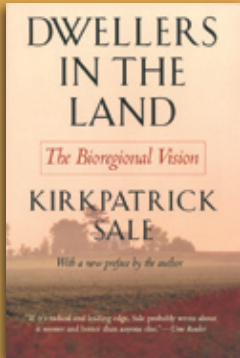

The Ecology of Rich and Poor

Tom Athanasiou

In this wide-ranging, grimly entertaining commentary on the environmental debate, Tom Athanasiou finds that our most urgent planetary crises are exacerbated, if not caused, by the planet's division into "warring camps of rich and poor."

"The single most accessible presentation of what is now known as 'social ecology' that has ever been written."—The Nation

400 pp.
Paper, $16.95s | 2007-6

Dwellers in the Land

The Bioregional Vision
Kirkpatrick Sale

Sale offers a definitive introduction to the unique concept of bioregionalism, an alternative way of organizing society to create smaller scale, more ecologically sound, individually responsive communities with renewable economies and cultures.

"If it's radical and leading edge, Sale probably wrote about it sooner and better than anyone else."—UTNE Reader

Paper, $22.95s | 2205-6

The Ethics of Environmental Concern

Robin Attfield
Second edition

A classic in the field of environmental ethics, the second edition includes a new introduction, a bibliographic essay, and an updated list of references.

"Not only philosophers but also natural and social scientists working on interdisciplinary environmental problems will benefit from reading the book."—Environmental Professional

280 pp.
Paper, $24.95s | 1344-3

Environmental Ethics and the Global Marketplace

Edited by Dorinda G. Dallmeyer and Albert F. Ike

Contributors to this collection argue that the health of the environment is inextricably linked to the health of the economy, and economic strength depends on the preservation of environmental values.

208 pp.
Paper, $20.00s | 2015-1
Unjacketed cloth, $45.00s | 2003-8

Values at Sea

Ethics for the Marine Environment
Edited by Dorinda G. Dallmeyer

The essays cover a broad array of ethical issues and policy matters related to such topics as the valuation of marine life, indigenous peoples' knowledge and environmental stewardship, endemic and exotic species, aquaculture, oil spills, and species protection.

"Lay[s] out foundations on which a new marine ethics may be based."

Ethics and Environmental Policy

Theory Meets Practice

Edited by Frederick Ferré and Peter Hartel

Leading environmentalists and philosophers explore the relationship between environmental ethics and policy. The first section of the book focuses on four approaches to change in ethical theory: ecological science, feminist metaphysics, Chinese philosophy, and holistic post-modern technology. Subsequent sections emphasize the need for nontraditional solutions and attempt to expand awareness of the most pressing practical problems.

Philosophy of Technology

Frederick Ferré

Ferré explains the fundamental concerns and methods of philosophy and guides readers through a philosophical inquiry into some of the major issues surrounding technology's impact on our lives.

"This is a wonderful introduction to the philosophy of technology—and indeed, to the understanding of philosophy itself, as well as to the study of the meaning, purpose, and results of technological changes."—Melvin Kranzberg, Georgia Institute of Technology

Paper, $22.95y | 1761-8

Educating for Eco-Justice and Community

C. A. Bowers

In the tradition of Wendell Berry, David Orr, and Kirkpatrick Sale, Bowers thinks about how we can reform education and create a less consumer-driven society.

"Bowers' is a unique voice in the discourse of environmental education/education for sustainability. He has the courage to question deeply-held beliefs and fundamental convictions which others either dare not touch or are unaware of."—Resurgence

Let Them Eat Data

How Computers Affect Education, Cultural Diversity, and the Prospects of Ecological Sustainability

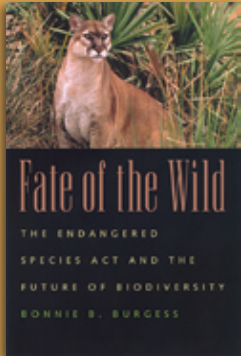

C. A. Bowers

"One of the most substantial and compelling works of technology criticism yet."
—Stephanie Mills, author of In Service of the Wild

"Essential reading if we are to begin democratizing technological decisions, conserving true cultural diversity and intergenerational forms of knowledge, and living within the limits and possibilities of the Earth's natural systems."

—International Journal of Sustainability in Higher Education

224 pp.
Paper, $18.95t | 2230-8

Fate of the Wild

The Endangered Species Act and the Future of Biodiversity

Bonnie B. Burgess

"Burgess does what has not yet been done, namely to review the whole subject of endangered species in the United States, from the Endangered Species Act to the present day. Fate of the Wild is an important resource for anyone trying to understand the history and the intricacies of this issue."—Thomas Lovejoy, Chief Biodiversity Advisor, The World Bank

232 pp.
Paper, $22.95s | 2492-0

Thoreau's Living Ethics

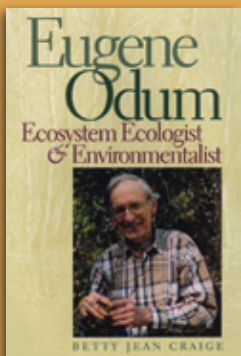

Walden and the Pursuit of Virtue

Philip Cafaro

"The first book-length study of Thoreau's ethics . . . Cafaro has done a substantial amount to open up a new field: environmental virtue ethics."—H-Net

"Cafaro correctly asserts that Thoreau deserves serious attention as a philosopher, and more specifically, as a moral philosopher."—Environmental Ethics

Paper, $24.95s | 2843-0

Eugene Odum

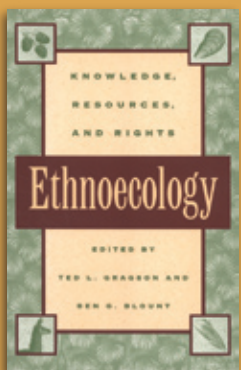

Ecosystem Ecologist and Environmentalist

Betty Jean Craige

In this biography of Odum, Craige depicts the intellectual growth, creativity, and vision of the scientist who made the ecosystem concept central to his discipline.

"For anyone looking for a very readable glimpse into the life of one of the founders of the popular environmental movement and a quality introduction to his work, Craige's book is just that."—Environment and History

256 pp. | 14 b&w photos
Paper, $18.95s | 2473-9

Ethnoecology

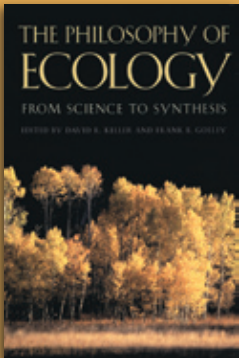

Knowledge, Resources, and Rights

Edited by Ted L. Gragson and Ben G. Blount

Examines subjects ranging from pastoralism to the use of medicinal plants to show that understanding the knowledge system of any people is essential to understanding their relation to their environment.

"Sociologists, particularly those interested in ecology, development policy, indigenous communities, and even linguistics, will likely find several of the discussions stimulating and catalysts for their own work."—Contemporary Sociology

The Philosophy of Ecology

From Science to Synthesis

Edited by David R. Keller and Frank B. Golley

The first introductory anthology on the philosophy of ecology edited by an ecologist and a philosopher. It illustrates the range of philosophical approaches available to ecologists and provides a basis for understanding the thinking on which many of today's environmental ideas are founded.

Sprawling Places

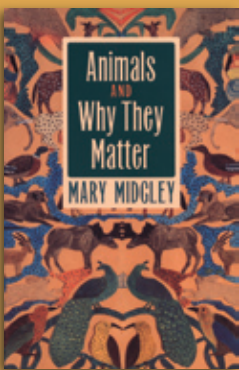

David Kolb

Engaging with the work of such writers and critics as Henri Lefebvre, Manuel Castells, Karsten Harries, and Christian Norberg-Schulz, Kolb seeks to treat the discussion about sprawl more critically.

"Making better places involves more than just improving the architecture—it means being attentive to the social interactions, norms, and meanings generated by a given location. Kolb employs this idea to help us assess and re-assess a variety of contemporary places, from theme parks to traditional suburbs to New Urbanist developments."

Paper, $22.95s | 2989-5
Unjacketed cloth, $59.95y | 2988-8

Animals and Why They Matter

Mary Midgley

"Midgley demolishes some of the most frequently heard arguments against the protection of animals."—New York Review of Books

"Brings together two intellectual currents: an increased scientific understanding and public appreciation of animals, and an increasing tendency by philosophers to extend moral questions beyond the barrier of our own species."—Smithsonian

160 pp.
Paper, $16.95s | 2041-0

Grounding Knowledge

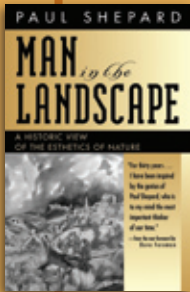

Environmental Philosophy, Epistemology, and Place

Christopher J. Preston

"Engagingly written, and would be quite accessible to interdisciplinary courses in environmental studies or as a summary of diverse yet convergent areas of study that show knowledge production are not acontextual. . . . Ultimately, the book is a call to treat human thought as materially grounded—in bodies, in social settings, and in uncultured particularities—rather than as artificially universal abstractions."—Environmental Ethics

PAUL SHEPARD

Man in the Landscape

A Historic View of the Esthetics of Nature

Foreword by Dave Foreman

Shepard's seminal 1967 work was among the first books of a new genre that has elucidated the ideas, beliefs, and images that lie behind our modern destruction and conservation of the natural world.

290 pp. | 11 photos
Paper, $18.95t | 2440-1

Nature and Madness

Foreword by C. L. Rawlins

Uncovers the cultural roots of our ecological crisis and proposes ways to repair broken bonds with the earth, our past, and nature.

200 pp.
Paper, $22.95s | 1980-3

The Tender Carnivore and the Sacred Game

Foreword by George Sessions

Contends that agriculture is responsible for our ecological decline and looks to the hunting and gathering lifestyle as a model more closely in tune with our essential nature.

"Shepard [is] an exceptionally clear thinker who is also a lucid and exhilarating writer."
—Peter Matthiessen

336 pp.
Paper, $18.95s | 1981-0

Thinking Animals

Animals and the Development of Human Intelligence

Foreword by Max Oelschlaeger

Proposes that other species are integral to humanity's evolution and exist at the core of our imagination. Without other living species by which to measure ourselves, he warns, we would be less mature, care less for and be more careless of all life, including our own kind.

296 pp.
Paper, $18.95s | 1982-7

Where We Belong

Beyond Abstraction in Perceiving Nature

Edited by Florence Rose Shepard

"His essays are so erudite, his sources so wide-ranging, that it is impossible not to read these essays and see old problems in new ways."—Environmental History

280 pp. | 36 photos
Cloth, $29.95t | 2420-3

Always the Mountains

David Rothenberg

Rothenberg moves effortlessly among nature writing, Eastern and Western philosophy, and environmental advocacy. "Go against the grain of species," he beckons to us, "and think for more than for ourselves."

"Stirring . . . Rothenberg explores our evolving attitudes—in literature, in philosophy—toward the lofty peaks that surround and inspire us."—E: The Environmental Magazine

296 pp.
Paper, $18.95t | 2953-6

Sudden Music

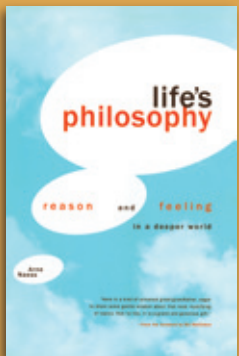

Improvisation, Sound, Nature

David Rothenberg

Weaving memoir, travelogue, and philosophical reflection, Sudden Music presents a musical way of knowing that can closely engage us with the world and open us to its spontaneity.

"A shimmering, picaresque, poly-brilliant book, rather like butterfly flight, but suitably piercing too."—Edward Hoagland

Life's Philosophy

Reason and Feeling in a Deeper World

Arne Naess, with Per Ingvar Haukeland

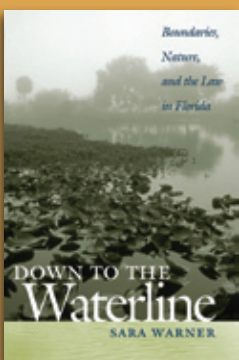

Translated by Roland Huntford

Foreword by Bill McKibben

Introduction by Harold Glasser

"Very few people, I fear, change their lives as a result of reading contemporary academic philosophy. They are more likely to respond to example, to story. So here is a kind of universal great-grandfather, eager to share some gentle wisdom about that most mystifying of topics: How to live. It is a grand and generous gift."— Bill McKibben, from the foreword

Down to the Waterline

Boundaries, Nature, and the Law in Florida

Sara Warner

In most states the boundary separating public waters from private uplands—the ordinary high water line (OHWL)—is a flashpoint between proponents of either property rights or public-trust protection of our water. Using Florida as a case study, this is the first book-length analysis of the OHWL doctrine and its legal, technical, and cultural underpinnings.

The Inward Morning

A Philosophical Exploration in Journal Form

Henry Bugbee

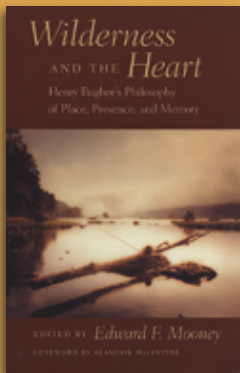

New Introduction by Edward F. Mooney

Introduction by Gabriel Marcel

Increasingly recognized as the only truly American existentialist and an original philosopher of wilderness, Bugbee is an inspiration to a growing number of contemporary philosophers.

“A classic of American philosophy . . . Its great contribution is the evocation of reality in all its force and poetry. In this it is a unique and pioneering work whose real influence on contemporary culture is yet to come.”—Albert Borgmann, author of Holding on to Reality

256 pp.
Paper, $16.95s | 2071-7

Wilderness and the Heart

Henry Bugbee's Philosophy of Place, Presence, and Memory

Edited by Edward F. Mooney

“One of the most important American philosophical texts in the second half of the twentieth century . . . These essays capture the spirit of Bugbee’s philosophical journal and reveal, in a variety of directions, the contemporary significance of his work.”—Doug Anderson

Virgin Forest

Meditations on History, Ecology, and Culture

Eric Zencey

“If you were to pick one person who sees deepest into environmentalism, I think that person might be Eric Zencey.”—Noel Perrin, author of First Person Rural

“A useful book to readers who are interested in the philosophical side of ecology, culture and history, and who want to understand the deeper forces behind moral ecology, before they study the more practical application of environmental history.”—Environment and History
